

5 Ways to Accelerate Customer Growth

Community Banking

August 4, 2021

Executive Summary:

U.S. community banks have an opportunity to capitalize on their impressive performance during the COVID-19 crisis by capturing business from small businesses and middle market companies frustrated with a perceived lack of support by their banks last year.

Almost one-third of U.S. small businesses and 28% of middle market companies participating in a 2020 study by Greenwich Associates said they were likely to switch banks in 2021 due to negative experiences with their current banks during the pandemic. Among the most common complaints from business owners and executives were breakdowns in the PPP loan application process and non-responsive bankers, especially in the early days of the crisis.

If companies were to follow through on these switching plans, it would put up for grabs more than $600 billion in business checking and bilateral credit balances, and more than $4 billion in checking and cash management fees.

The data contained in the Document is based upon a particular bank's scope, which reflects a bank's data submission, business structure, and sales revenue Reporting methodology. As a result, any data contained in the Document may not be directly comparable to data presented to another bank. For franchise benchmarking, Crisil Coalition Greenwich has implemented equal ranking logic on aggregate results i.e., when sales revenues are within 5% of at least one competitor ahead, a tie is shown and designated by = (where actual ranks are shown). Entity level data has no equal ranking logic implemented and therefore, on occasion, the differences between rank bands can be very close mathematically.

The data in this Document may reflect the views reported to Crisil Coalition Greenwich by the research participants. Interviewees may be asked about their use of and demand for financial products and services and about investment practices in relevant financial markets. Crisil Coalition Greenwich compiles the data received, conducts statistical analysis and reviews for presentation purposes to produce the final results.
